Two sessions of court were held Tuesday by Justice of the Peace William R. Hawkins, at his home in North Coventry. In the morning the case of William Clark, charged with breach of the peace, was heard. The complainant was Captain William A. Wolfe. Both men are residents of South Coventry State. Police Officer M. Young made the arrest and Grand Juror Robert Brooks prosecuted. Clark entered a plea of not guilty. Captain Wolfe testified that he owned an ice house at the lake front, also a small sized dock near by at which cottagers tied up their motor boats when purchasing ice from him. For some time Tom Clark Lewis, who had been hired man (Clark). He allowed Clark to use the dock a few times but Saturday he told him that he would not any longer. The launch was tied there again Sunday morning. Captain Wolfe testified that he then loosened the rope on the boat and allowed the launch to swing out to let some of his customers in. Clark saw this being done from the shore, came up to Wolfe in a threatening manner and asked him what he meant by letting the launch out. According to complainant. After about a minute of this conversation both men rushed into each other and in the midst of the struggle Wolfe was hit but little time in getting out. Officer Young, told of receiving the complaint and making the arrest. William Prince, who witnessed the trouble, testified as to Clark's bad language. Clark testified that he understood that Wolfe had given him the privilege of using the dock, and it was customary for him (Clark) to make use of that privilege. He did not see Wolfe's manner of letting the launch loose and admitted raising his voice in anger and at clenching with Wolfe.

LAST Fall at the $10.90 price it seemed to motorists as if the 30 x 3 1/2 USCO had reached the peak of tire value.

Yet the makers of USCO have now produced a still better USCO—a longer wearing tire with—

Thicker tread—thicker side walls. Better traction, longer service, more mileage.

And the tax is absorbed by the manufacturer.

The new and better USCO is a tire money's worth that was impossible a year ago.
